You, the defendant, must do one of the following within fourteen days of receiving a Notice of Fine (i) pay the fine; or (ii) submit a fine review application in the prescribed form to dispute the allegations, the fine or the time given to pay the fine.

If you pay the fine within seven days of being served with the Notice of Fine, or earlier, you may pay the discounted amount for early payment of a fine. If you do not pay the fine within fourteen days of being Served with a Notice of Fine, you must pay the late fine amount.

If you pay the fine in full, you are deemed to have pled guilty to the alleged offences in the Notice of Fine. If you don't pay the fine in full within fourteen (14) days of being served with a Notice of Fine, then you will be deemed to plead guilty to the alleged offence(s) in the Notice of Fine and you will be required to pay the late fine.

FINE REVIEW

You, the defendant, may submit a Fine Review Application to dispute the allegations in the Notice of Fine, request a reduction in the amount of the fine, request additional time to pay the fine, or dispute any other matter with respect to the Notice of Fine.

To request a Fine Review, you must, within 14 days of receipt of a Notice of Fine, submit a Fine Review Application to the K'ómoks First Nation administrator in person, by mail or by email to the address set out above. Fine Review Applications are available at the KFN administration offices.

A justice of the peace may conduct a Fine Review in writing, by video conference, telephone or other electronic means, or in person, if the justice of the peace considers it relevant, necessary and appropriate.

If you disputed the allegations related to the commission of the offence(s) set out in the Notice of Fine, then at the completion of the Fine Review, the justice of the peace will issue a Fine Review Determination that sets out whether or not you are guilty of the alleged offence(s) and which may confirm or vary the amount of the fine set out in the Notice of Fine; set the time within which such fine is due and payable; and impose any other condition that it deems just and reasonable in the circumstances. If you are unsuccessful at a Fine Review, the justice of the peace will order that you pay an administrative fee of $75.00 due to K'ómoks First Nation, in addition to any fine due and payable under a Notice of Fine.

WHAT HAPPENS IF YOU DO NOT DO ANYTHING WITHIN FOURTEEN DAYS OF BEING SERVED

If you do not pay the fine or request a Fine Review within fourteen (14) days of being served with a Notice of Fine, you are deemed to plead guilty to the alleged offences in the Notice of Fine and the applicable fine plus any prescribed late payment surcharge is immediately due and payable.

Any amount that remains due and payable may be recovered in provincial court. K'ómoks First Nation may commence such proceedings to recover the amount due and payable twenty-eight (28) days after the date on which the Notice of Fine was served.
