

`Namgis First Nation

Megan Whonnock

My name is Megan Whonnock, and I am the Land Code Manager for the `Namgis First Nation. Our community is located on Cormorant Island, just off the North Eastern coast of Vancouver Island in BC. I am originally from the Sayisi Dene First Nation, and my connection to the `Namgis is through my husband Joseph Whonnock (Smith).

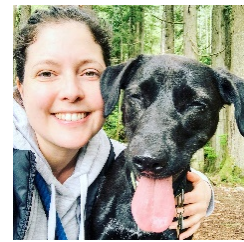

I'm very honoured to be working on the newly operational Land Code as I am passionate about working hard to support Indigenous rights to self-determination. I have moved here from my role as Manager, Indigenous Knowledge Policy & Engagement with the Ministry of Forests, Lands, Natural Resource Operations & Rural Development (FLNRORD) and have previously worked in the fields of program management, economic development, youth services, event management and communications.
